BETTY'S BILL

By CORONA REMINGTON

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service)

BIG Bill Collingsworth strode up the front steps of the Desmones home with the air of a conquering hero. He gave the door bell a sharp little punch and in a moment Betty herself had opened the door and stood before him, pink and radiant.

"I knew it was you by the way you rang," she said, when they had exchanged the usual greetings. "You have good news, too."

By this time they were walking slowly toward the living room, his arm flung lightly about her shoulder.

"I have," he answered standing stock still. "The greatest news that anyone ever had in this whole world. Get your fella ready, we're going to be married soon."

"Bill!" she exclaimed, giving his hand a little squeeze. "Tell me, do I want to hear. Let's sit down quick before I fall!"

"You know old John Tollman? Mean old devil, but he's got the kale all right. Well, he was in a street car accident not long ago and he's engaged me to take the case and recover damages. Me! Can you believe it. We ought to be able to get married on the spot."

"Bill Collingsworth, you're the greatest lawyer in this whole city full of men. I've always known it and now the world's beginning to find it out," said Betty, looking adoringly at her fiance.

When old Tollman entered Bill Collingsworth's office the next day the young lawyer experienced a sudden revulsion of feeling as his swift glance took in the crabbled old face, the colorless lips, the diamond stickpin and the heavy fur coat of his prospective client.

"Well, young man," he began, throwing off his coat and dropping stiffly into a chair. "I hear you're a smart chap and that's the very kind I'm looking for. This is going to be a hard case, the company will contest it on the grounds that it was my fault, but I'm a good client. I'll do just what my lawyer tells me." He winked at young Collingsworth and continued, "and I got a bunch of witnesses who are willing to do the same," he ended laughing loudly and slapping his leg.

"I'm sorry," said Collingsworth rising, his face drawn and white, "but I'm afraid I'm not just the kind of an attorney you need. I don't believe I could handle your case."

"I guess I must have come to the wrong place," started Tollman, his jovial manner suddenly gone. "I reckon you ain't a lawyer at all but a Sunday school teacher."

With that he walked out, and a moment later a very sad young man left the office looking and feeling his way to the Desmones home.

"I'm proud of my law," said Betty after she had heard the story, "and what do you expect? Something better may come along some day."

Disconsolately, he returned to his office. He poured off his coffee and not even came near. The whole week was a nightmare. It seemed as if every one had forgotten him.

After days of silence, a jangling of the telephone at last showed him that he was not alone.

"This is Harrison of the Hallway and Light company," said a hearty voice. "Could you come down to my office some time this afternoon?"

Collingsworth, slightly startled, came down and consulted a bank date book.

"Let's see," he said over the wire. "One o'clock . . . Two . . . I could see you for half an hour from three-thirty to four. Will that do?"

"Fine!" answered Harrison. "I'll expect you then. Goodby."

"Now, what do you suppose he wants with me?" muttered Collingsworth after he had hung up.

But he could not solve the problem, and it was nearly four o'clock before he found out.

ADVERTISING VS. BANKRUPTCY

According to Bradstreet's report for 1930, 95 per cent of business failures were non-advertisers. One does not hesitate a minute about insuring his home or place of business, but how about the business itself? The successful business man is the one who goes after business, the failure is the one who sits around and waits for business to come to him. Bradstreet's percentage shows that the going business man is an advertiser.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

L. A. Edwards, Pastor

9:30 Church School. Miss Ida Pa-ward, Superintendent. The subject of the Pastor's story will be, "Four boys whose names were changed; but whose purposes remained unchanged."

10:45 Morning Worship. Mr. Malcolm Dana will be the speaker. Mr. Dana has never been before a Bethel audience, but is known throughout the State as a leader of youth. Mr. Dana, who is still a young man, is rapidly making a name for himself as a leader of youth.

At three o'clock the young people of this community and surrounding towns will gather for a Conference which will be led by Mr. Dana. This meeting is all important. If you can't attend the other services don't miss this. Come with your problems and have your friend "Bud" Dana help you to solve them.

Following the Conference there will be a buffet lunch served and a social hour enjoyed.

7:00 Mass Meeting in the Auditorium to be addressed by Mr. Dana, to which everybody is cordially invited.

All of the services of the day are sponsored by the Comrades of the Way.
Let us show our appreciation of their enterprise by giving the services our hearty support.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

As yet we have not had a sleigh ride —wagon wheels, cart wheels and auto wheels instead of runners, much to the displeasure of many.

Edwin Blisby of Greenwood is working for Gerold Benson. Andrews Rose is also working for the Bensons cutting firewood.

The Davises have secured their year's supply of ice from the Andrews mill pond. Hendrickson and Benson Brothers are cutting their this week.

Mrs. Velma Brown Davis spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the Browns and Austins at Bryant Pond the past week.

Stanley Andrews spent the week end with his parents here. He is now attending the Maine School of Commerce at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Corry Bonney of West Sumner are visiting with the family of
A. M. Andrews.

Mrs. Angie Robbins and daughter Gertrude of Mechanic Falls are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Andrews.

Gayden Davis has bought the hay stored in the barn at Fred Beck's and is hauling it to his place here.

Mrs. Bernice Davis spent Thursday night with her cousin, Mrs. Eva Haselton, at South Paris.

About 1000 cords of wood and timber will be taken out from Molly Jonott logging camps this winter. About 300 cords are already hauled to its destination, 200 on the landings and some 500 partly cut but contracted for still in the woods.

Mrs. Caroline Eicher, who has gone to Lewiston for medical treatment, writes to friends here that as yet she feels no improvement. Everyone is hoping that she will soon be better.

One of the Hart brothers from the Magalloway has moved into the Ver-rell camp. Mr. and Mrs. Hart are newly weds. Mrs. Hart being formerly Miss Alice Cole of North Paris, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Cole of that town.

Since commencing to write these items I have had and enjoyed to the utmost my first sleigh ride for the winter. The sleigh was drawn by the blue ribbon from all corners in her class, entered as a yearling, a two-year and a three-year old at our Oxford County Agricultural Fair.

A skilled veterinarian was called Saturday evening to administer to Gingo, the highly prized pet dog belonging to "Stan" and "Pete" Andrews. The case was diagnosed an indigestional stoppage from which he died Sunday morning. The dog was about 10 years old and was endowed with exceptional dog intelligence, being trained to both sled and wagon service. Gingo will be greatly missed by the entire neighborhood as his joyous bark always announced a welcome to all comers, day or night.

At this writing, G. W. Q. Perham and Herman Billings are both confined to the house with severe complications resulting from influenza colds.

Just a word to help. If everyone who has cold or its attendant symptoms will take an all-time treatment of soda much suffering may be avoided.

GILEAD

Herbert Wheeler of Peru spent the week end at his home here.

Mrs. Lella Bedard of Berlin, N. H., was a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Daniels.

Miss Sophia Lander has completed her duties at Brown's boarding house and has gone to Portland where she has accepted a position.

There was a whist party and dance at the Grange Hall last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Grange.
Music was furnished by Lord's Orchestra and a large crowd attended.
Refreshments were served at intervals.

The many friends of Mrs. Josephine Wheeler are glad to know she is much improved from her recent illness. She is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Harriman, in Gorham, N. H.

Mrs. Prescott Bennett is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. W. B. Treadwell of Bethel was in town Monday.
